The Széchenyi Thermal Baths' medicinal waters are sourced from a depth of 1,246 metres with a soothing temperature of 76°C

French marine skincare and spa brand Thalion has partnered with Budapest's first and largest thermal bath facility to supply spa guests with its signature spa rituals.

Founded in 1913, The Széchenyi Thermal Baths are inspired by Roman, Greek and Eastern styles of bathing and is one of the largest bathing complexes in Europe.

The facility has tapped Thalion's expertise to complement its mineral-rich hydrotherapy experiences with the detoxifying powers of Thalion's seaweed-powered spa treatments.

Home to 21 baths, 10 saunas, hammams and several treatment rooms, the Széchenyi Thermal Baths' medicinal waters are sourced from a depth of 1,246 metres with a soothing temperature of 76°C.

Rodolphe Gagnepain, Thalion's export manager, commented: "Széchenyi Thermal Baths was looking for a brand who could provide efficiency, naturality and sensoriality. A brand that could offer its clients new experiences while expanding the baths' services with a mix of medical and wellness treatments.

"This is exactly what Thalion, as a premium marine brand, could offer."
